APPLICATIONS for delivery of seed grain have slackened off to such an extent that hereafter Insp. Snyder will issue to applicants whose names are not on the lists as well as to those whose names are there. They will now be able to get grain on the same terms as those whose names were on the lists, as long as the supply of seed holds out. Those whose names were regularly on the lists will do well to notice that seed will not be held any longer for them specially. From this time forward it will be a case of first come first served.

SEVERAL leading Canadian papers have published the confessions of murderer Holmes in which he gives the details of some twenty-seven murders committed by him. The confessions may be true or they may be false. If they were contained in a novel the book would be pronounced unreadable by decent people, if it were not prevented from passing through the mails. If they are true they are all the more horrible.

And yet on the excuse of their being true they are published in such a way that children can scarcely be prevented from seeing them. The publication of this brute's brutal confessions in a generally reputable newspaper is an offence against society as serious in its way as the acts to which Holmes confessed were in theirs. Such rottenness is not less rotten because it is cloaked under the name of newspaper "enterprise."

THE RAILWAY QUESTION.

Situated as the Northwest is in the heart of the continent and its chief products being those which under present conditions must be carried far in order to reach an adequate market, the transportation question is necessarily the great question in the Territories. The transportation question is the railway question, for there are no available waterways in the Territories, and the railway question is the question of railway rates. Railways are a first necessity of civilization and settlement. And a great part of the Territories now have railway facilities. A great and valuable part, however, have not those facilities, and at present the prospect of their securing them does not seem very bright. A very large proportion of the best lands in the Territories are locked up in the hands of a single railway company, which does not seem inclined to make a move towards further extensions at present, and the fact of the land being locked up in their hands strongly deters other companies from building. This would be a comparatively small matter to the present residents of the Territories if it did not have a side which affects them very directly. While a railway is a necessity to the settlement of a country suitable export rates for the produce of the country over that railway is a more vital necessity for the progress of the country than the railway itself. The export price of produce governs the home price, and unless produce can be exported profitably, production ceases to be profitable and the country ceases to progress. This is very much the condition of the settled portions of the Northwest today. They have the railway, but they have not such railway rates as will allow them to produce at a reasonable profit. Consequently a condition of stagnation exists which is felt in every line of business as well as on the farms. We have the railways; why not compel them to give such rates as would allow the country to progress instead of compelling it to stagnate? It is said that under the arrangement that has been made with the C. P. R. that is impossible. That the railway company are masters of the situation, and can charge what rates they please irrespective of the wish or will of the country or its government. If that is the case the only remedy is the introduction of other railways that will be under control to such an extent as to guarantee to the people of the Territories a fair export rate on their produce. There is plenty of Territory yet for such railways to occupy, and their occupation of that Territory would effect the present occupied Territory by giving that competition in accommodation and rates that existing facts prove to be the first and most pressing necessity of the Territories. The government may not be able to compel a reduction in the rates of the C. P. R., but the government can inaugurate a policy of railway competition in the Territories, in contradistinction from the present policy of railway monopoly. This is the cure for the present condition of affairs in the Territories—and the only cure. We want more people and the only way we can get them is to make it profitable for them to come here. We can offer them good homes now, but they must have the opportunity to make money for themselves or they won't come. And that is just where railway monopoly pinches us and prevents our progress. A man can live here, but the railway company does not give him that opportunity to make the most out of the natural advantages of the country and his own industry, and therefore he does not look upon the Territories as a desirable field for his enterprise—particularly if he is possessed of a little means. A policy of encouragement to competing railways is the great need of the Northwest at the present time and it is a policy which cannot be expected from the government of the day.

SASKATCHEWAN GOLD.

Mr. James Gibbons states: That bench diggings occur about 75 miles above here. There is a steep bank there with a stratum of gravel 15 to 20 feet thick from low water mark up.

There are bench diggings on Miners flat, and on the Hudson's Bay flat, on Rusty Bar flat, opposite Clover Bar flat. Men have done well in drifting on Rusty Bar flat. I have made $12 a day on it. The average we used to make on it with a rocker was $16 to $20 a day in 1895 our first year. The river has been worked every year since and the average is now from $1 to $3 per day. The gold is now harder to save than in our day, when we used only a rocker and copper plates, not grizzlies and blankets. I invented the grizzly which is now used and is more effective than the rocker. I think the gold bearing gravel extends under the surface of the country, and is not confined to the old river bed. I don't think the country outside of the river has been prospected as all. I think if any coarse gold is found on this side of the Rocky Mountains, it will be found on this side of the Brazeau river. This country for 75 miles above and 150 miles below Edmonton has been the gold producing district for the last 30 years. In swift current you can find no float gold. The Goose Encampment is about the last place we found gold up the Saskatchewan. There are several bars on this river within 40 miles above here, and a little further up, and after a year of unusually high water miners can make $10 to $12 per day on these bars by skimming off just one or two inches, the deposit left by the high water. This would be on bars which yielded nothing previous to the high water. My last work yielded me $12 per day. In the old days $12 per day would not be specially good pay as provisions were very high. If coarse gold is found I don't think it will be found on the bars. Where there is coarse gold, you find colors of it in the creeks near. Coarse gold always sinks to the bed rock of the river. If coarse gold is found on this side of the Rocky Mountains I think it will be found on the Brazeau, because the head waters of that river are in a direct line with Cariboo and are in slate rock, but my opinion is that there is no coarse gold on this side of the mountains, though coarse gold has been found where one would never think of looking for it. We have prospected the head waters of the Saskatchewan and find they are in a sand stone range, and I don't think coarse gold will be found there, but rather in the neighborhood of the Jasper Pass where there is slate quartz. Hibbert prospected on my flat and was so satisfied with the result that he offered to bring in all the machinery necessary to work it if I would work it. I believe there is gold in the old river bed and that it is likely to be richer than the river is now.

Mr. Wm. Cusid said that he went with four others up the Finlay Creek of the Peace river in 1862. They found a horse shoe bend about three miles up the creek from the forks, and at the bend was a bar which would have yielded them $8000 each if they had gone about 300 yards across it, but they did not discover that fact until 15 months afterwards. They worked six days on the bar and realized $4000 between the five men. Ed. Carey was Mr. Cusid's partner. They went out with another party came in and spoiled the bar, which was the best place on the Peace River. It was the outlet for coarse gold. I worked on Manson Creek the next summer for six months, but only made $1800 in that time. We went up the Finlay branch 150 miles, but did not find anything else worth working. I think it might now be again profitably worked if a man had provisions, but at that time we were not looking for gold. Provisions are too expensive up there to make mining profitable. Do not know of any bench digging on Peace River. At the bar they struck (Peter Joy's) they could see the gold in the black sand with the naked eye. There was as much gold as black sand. They worked without suitable tools, which had been lost with a canoe. Best diggings are found in the high ground of the river banks, at about high water mark. Had made $10 to $12 per day at Dunvegan on Peace River.

Donald Ross says that on the Saskatchewan river, Edmonton, is about the centre of the auriferous gravel. It extends 100 miles up the river and more than that down. The further you get away from the centre the fewer paying bars you find. There is no doubt but that on some of the flats in the river, paying diggings could be found. They made it pay now where drifts are found. The first winter he was here in 1872-73 he worked one of the bars as far as 100 feet into the drift, washed the dirt in the spring and made $10 per day during the wash up. Does not think there is any coarse gold or quartz to be found this side of the Rocky Mountains, but has not prospected anywhere except on the Saskatchewan river, and there are no indications of coarse gold in that river. In the gravel in his own garden gold can be found, but he doubts whether in sufficient quantities to pay for working. In the summer of 1873 he and his partners struck during the high water, through the sand into the river, and then when low water came, they washed out $200 worth of gold in 10 days. That was near the barracks at Fort Saskatchewan. Has had no experience in bench diggings. There is a place down the river about 60 miles, below Vermilion, where he had good prospects in the banks, about 20 feet up, and believes good paying bench diggings could be made there. The gravel in the river is not in some places more than a foot thick. Up the river it places the water flows on the bare coal. When he had made up his mind to quit the river, a man stopped about 8 miles above Fort Saskatchewan after very high water and made $25.50 in one day, when high water drove him out. He went back at low water and made $17.50 per day. That was in 1874. Thinks the gold found in the river is washed out of the undeveloped sandstone found on the river banks. Gold has been found in California in sandstone.

Jack Noyes has been here 23 years and says that back from the river where you can find gravel you get gold. Has found it on the Hudson's Bay Co's flat two feet from the surface. Made $10 to $15 per day at first. Another made $25. Sam Livingstone made $25 per day all summer and so did Sandy Anderson. They were the first miners in 1865. Was last mining 8 years ago and never made less than $5 per day. Has heard of gold the size of a pin head on a bar up the Brazeau river, and believes it was in the mouth of a canyon 15 miles from the Saskatchewan. There are good prospects on the McLeod river, the bend is on sandstone. Half broods made $3 to $8 per day. There are lots of bench diggings there. There is also gold on the Pembina river.

Mr. George Wilkins says that starting from about 35 miles above the Jasper House there is a bed of gold bearing quartz that runs for several miles up the Miette river. This quartz is now assayed and shown to carry about $8 to the ton. This bed of quartz is practically inexhaustible. The bed rock of the country there is granite. Further into the Cariboo district at Tete Jaune Cache two or three miles mines I have already been discovered, and one is now being worked by J. T. Smith, of Kamloops, who took out 1,500 pounds of muscovite last year, some of which was 12x30 inches. Last year a very fine specimen of the oriental topaz was discovered on one of the creeks running into the Fraser river, and beryl has been discovered at the Tete Jaune Cache mica mine. Granite is also the bed rock of the country there. Placer gold in materially paying quantities is found right along from Tete Jaune Cache to Barkerville. The gold range being heavily timbered with cedar and fir has prevented any thorough prospect of this district being made.

SOUTH AFRICA.

The London Times of April 18th, has a letter from Johannesburg this morning, bearing date of March 30, which confirms the intelligence hitherto brought by cable, that Colonial Secretary Chamberlain had demanded President Kruger's reply to the invitation to visit England within a certain number of hours, but that Mr. Chamberlain had granted an extension of the time on President Kruger's request. "If peace is patched up now, however," says the letters, "it seems hardly possible to avoid trouble in the future. A racial war would be a popular cry and all the Boers in South Africa would join in the defence of the Transvaal. It may fairly be computed that the Transvaal would furnish 15,000 men; the Orange Free State 20,000 men; and Cape Colony and Natal 15,000, making altogether 50,000 men. The military preparations here are quite inconsistent with any other explanation than that war is considered imminent. Large quantities of cannon, Maxim guns, rifles and ammunition are pouring into the country, and orders, especially to German firms, are being given for all the requirements of war. The people are being roused by inflammatory speeches delivered in different parts of the country. Quite recently the Volksraad urged the Boers not to forget how the English had treated the Boers, and during the trial of the reform committee prisoners, the beam was brought from Pretoria, which the English used fifty years ago during the rebellion to hang five Boers. It was this incident which led to Mr. Chamberlain's remonstrance (holding the Transvaal responsible for the safety of the reform prisoners) and the president expressed the opinion here that the beam was intended for a museum. The general opinion, however, is that it was for a more sinister purpose."

The Times has an editorial this morning couched in serious terms on the situation in South Africa. It says: "It is quite time that the nation and the government should realize that we have serious work, both in South Africa and in the Sudan. The government ought to take steps to ascertain the extent and character of the Boer armaments, which even the Transvaal agent does not deny, but which he explains is out of respect for an old and long neglected law. That being the case, President Kruger cannot complain if we follow suit. The government ought not to delay to place an experienced officer at the head of both the regular and irregular forces designed for Matabeleland."

CREAMERY ADVERTISEMENT.

The following appears in an advertisement of the Calgary Crescent Creamery in a recent issue of the Calgary Herald. The information is interesting and if accurate is valuable. The BULLETIN gives it for what it is worth.

The Calgary Crescent Creamery with four separating stations begins work on May 1st, '96, with branch factories at Edmononton and Edmonton and 13 separating stations. Payments cash. Monthly settlements beginning 15 days after the close of the month. All milk and cream is tested by the Babcock test for milk, and oil test for cream. Every patron's milk or cream is credited according to its butter fat value in commercial butter at highest market prices, less five cents per lb. for manufacture, which includes salt, parchment paper, tubs and boxes, stenciling and advertising.

100 lbs. 3 per cent. milk	3.3 lbs. butter
100 lbs. 3.6 " "	" " 4.5 "
100 lbs. 4 " "	" " 5 " "
100 lbs. 4.6 " "	" " 5.5 "
100 lbs. 5 " "	" " 6.7 "

Patrons get 80 lbs of skim milk back. The following example for hand separator patrons. Cream is measured in cylindrical milk 12 inches exactly in diameter. Twelve inches of cream is:

16 per cent. oil test	8.7 lbs. butter.
18 " " "	" " 9.8 "
20 " " "	" " 10.9 "
22 " " "	" " 12 " "
24 " " "	" " 13 " "
26 " " "	" " 14.2 "
28 " " "	" " 15.3 "
30 " " "	" " 16.4 "

If delivered to the factory manufactured for 4 cents per lb. Hand separators sold very cheap for cash to patrons. They are sold on time only to patrons of the creamery with an agreement that a certain sum each month shall be retained to apply on notes given on machinery. Every separating station or central factory should have one. It saves 10 to 20 p. c. more cream than by any other process. A separator removes all fat making, blood, matter, garget, etc., in the milk, also liquid impurities that pass through the finest strainer. All milk carries more or less of these foreign substances according to the build of the man who cares for the cow. Each little globule of butter fat rising to the surface carries on its surface a share of these impurities. Therefore as good keeping or as finely flavoured butter cannot possibly be made from deep set or pan cream as from the separator cream. High class separator butter is what the English and all markets call for, and will not pay within 2c to 2½c per lb. as much for gargeted cream as separator butter as for gild edge separator creamery butter. Australian butter sells from 8 to 10 shillings per cwt more than finest Canadian. Ten shillings per cwt is a fraction over 2c per lb on butter. This is enough to pay freight and commission from Calgary to Liverpool. Our success so far in establishing our butter and getting such splendid connections for large quantities of butter for the English and coast markets (also Japan and China) has been due largely to the fact that we did not make gargeted cream butter.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.
A meeting was held in Mr. Stennett's store on Monday evening when officers were elected as follows: President, H. B. Round; 1st vice-president, Dr. Braithwaite; 2nd vice-president, G. E. Grogan; secretary, S. Chivers Wilson; treasurer, D. Evans; executive committee, Messrs. J. C. F. Bown, Lee, R. W. V. Vaudin, W. E. Stennett, and A. G. Randall. Draft constitution and by-laws were read by the committee appointed to formulate same, which were laid over for consideration and adoption by a special meeting. It was decided to have a dinner on St. George's Day, which is next Thursday, at Griesenthwaite's restaurant, at 5 p. m., at a cost of 50 cents each. The programme committee have their arrangements well forward, and a good number of jovial Englishmen and their Canadian brothers are expected to partake of an old fashioned English dinner. The presidents of the St. Andrew's Society, Old Timers' Society and St. Jean Baptiste Society will be guests. Regular month mutual help and social enjoyment.

CREAM SEPARATORS.
It seems that after all there is some doubt as to when the Crescent creamery will start operations, and very little prospect of the Edmonton creamery being run except as a skimming station. However the main point is whether farmers can get a good paying figure for their milk or not. It does not matter so much where the butter is made or who makes it. It is becoming more and more evident however every day that the general use of hand separators by farmers is the keystone of successful dairying in this country.
With settlement scattered as it is it has not yet paid nor will it ever pay the creamery company to gather whole milk from the farmers. And if it does not pay the company much less will it pay the farmer to take their milk to a skimming station. Of course circumstances may be such that they can afford to do it, but as a matter of business calculation it will not pay. On the other hand cream gathered by any other than the separator process will not make the gilt edged quality of butter that the market now requires. If the farmer has a hand separator the creamery company can gather the cream and make the highest quality of butter, which they cannot do if the cream is not machine separated. Until each farmer has enough cows of his own to warrant the purchase of a separator it would probably be the best way for him to let what cows he can spare on shares to his neighbor who has a separator. This seems to be almost the only way of getting over the difficulty of the excessive cost in getting the cream to the factory. Once the cream reaches the factory in a proper condition and at a proper cost, the rest is easy. It is this part of the business that has been overlooked hitherto in calculations of creamery schemes and creamery profit. And it seems that the general use of hand separators is the only way of getting over the difficulty.

STONY PLAIN.
The sudden death on the 11th inst. of Neil McDermott, Stony Plain, cast a gloom over the community. He was sick of inflammation only a few days. His age was only 28 years, which shows clearly that in the midst of life we are in death. He came from the province of Ontario four years ago and by frugal industry was on a fair way of making himself a comfortable home; but alas he was called to the bourne from whence no traveller returns. Notwithstanding the stormy weather on Monday, the 13th, all the settlement was at the funeral to pay their last tribute of respect. While in life he was endeared to all by his kind, generous and straightforward actions.

GENERAL NEWS.
The Winnipeg Commercial suggests that the Manitoba legislature should put the school law of the province on the basis of the second proposal in the provincial offer to the Dominion commissioners without waiting for action by parliament. This would be good policy, from every point of view.

A telegram to the Free Press from New York says that: "A prominent firm received a letter from one of the leading mining houses in London, which has recently become interested in underwriting and developing mines to the effect that London is directing its attention to Canada and America more than it has ever done before, and this disposition is stimulated by the South African troubles." West Australia has had a considerable boom and now it is believed that Canadian and American mines will be taken up in earnest. Several leading firms who have been noted for their success in South Africa, already have representatives on route to Colorado and British Columbia. A large flow of London capital to Canada and the United States is looked for.

A dispatch to the New York Herald from Wady Halfa, Egypt, dated April 14th, says: "Sarraz and Akashah have been strongly garrisoned. The railway between these points is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. Four miles of rail have been already laid. The track will be completed along the course laid down in 1882 in order to pass the cataracts. For the guarding of the railway strong posts have been established on the Nile at Semgh, Wady, Ambigol, Tanguar and Sonki. Each of these posts has been supplied with contingent guards at a point opposite to it on the line, as it is laid in order to prevent the Dervishes from destroying the work. The Dervishes at Suarda, who number 3,000 advanced their posts to Mograkah, a distance of 15 miles from Akashah. The main body of Dervishes still remaining at Dongola.
